Break Austrian Line.

Rome, May 24.—Italian forces yesterday broke through the Austro-Hungarian line from Castagnavizza to the sea, taking more than 9,000 prisoners, as official statement issued today.

Make Important Gains.

London, May 24.—The Italian offensive has entered into its second stage with new and important gains between Gorizia and the sea. Major General Maurice said today to the Associated Press. The first day of the new drive has resulted in the capture of more than 3,000 prisoners.

The Italian war office announced Italian forces had occupied part of the area south of Castagnavizza. Both couloir roads leading to Bosconio and had captured the town of Jamiano and other forces east of Pietracassa and Egna. The Italian official said the Austro-Hungarians at first were surprised and non-plussed. Toward evening they launched counter attacks and were repulsed. Italian aeroplanes numbering 130, dropped ten bombs.

General Maurice said all the objectives of the Italians had been gained and that details of operations would be given in the official communication to be issued at Rome later in the day.

Naval Battle in Baltic.

Pronounced naval activity in the Baltic on Tuesday is reported in a Central News dispatch. Yesterday a violent cannonading lasting throughout the night was heard by persons along the shore. Houses on the southern Danish Island shook.

Air Raid on England.

London, May 24.—Four or five German airships dropped bombs in the eastern counties of England last night, according to an official statement, and escaped although pursued.

The official statement says:

"Four or five hostile airships approached East Anglia shortly before midnight last night. Clouds made observation difficult."

"Four airships appeared to have penetrated inland to eastern countries. They followed erratic courses and dropped a number of bombs in the country district, apparently being unable to locate their positions. The raiders were pursued by our aeroplanes, but thick clouds enabled them to escape. The material damage is believed to be negligible."

On British Front.

"We secured a few prisoners during the night as a result of patrol encounters east of Ypres," says today's war news report on operations along French-Belgian front. "Nothing else interesting occurred."

GREAT LAKES PLANTS BUILD MANY SEABOATS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milwaukee, Wis., May 24.—Great Lakes ship-building plants are exerting every effort to aid in the war rush for boats to thwart the kaiser's divers.

Figures compiled here today indicate great lake yards are capable of turning out about 3,000 ships and boats for ocean trade each month and about 1,000 larger tonnage every ten days. Scores of such vessels are now under construction. The capacity of the yards is being increased as fast as machinery can be installed.

While eastern lakes yards produce more ships than those on Michigan and Superior shores, Wisconsin yards are doing their share and a large part of the tonnage is coming from northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan peninsula woods.

There are more than 2,500 classed boats on the lakes at this time and many of these are being converted to sea-going vessels. The last federal census showed 1,650 steam vessels of 2,424,803 tons, 191 sailing vessels of 182,225 tons and 775 gas boats, motor tugs and launches registered.

More than one hundred lake boats have already gone to sea for service, and it is estimated nearly 500 more are available for ocean trade and other governmental uses.

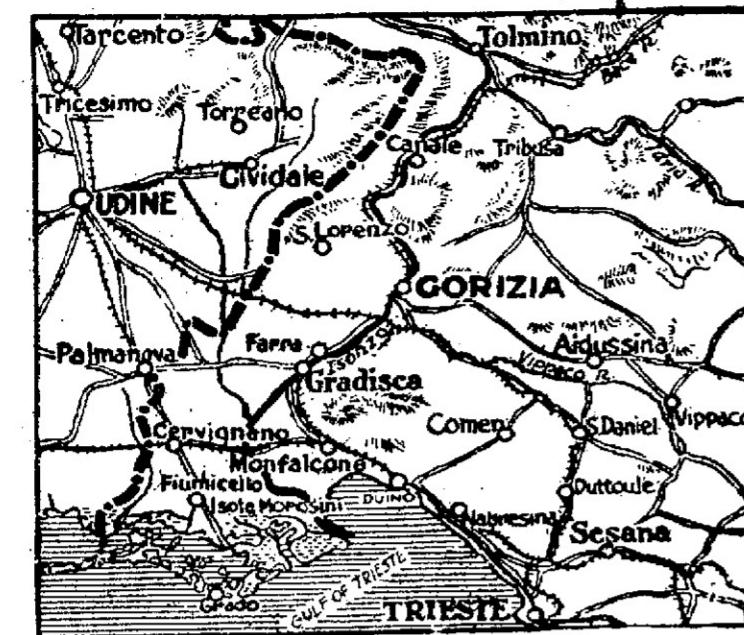

Ships for ore and grain usage, because of their vitally necessary work, of course, will remain on the lakes.

CROWDER EMPHASIZES ASK RAILROAD MEN
ALL MUST REGISTER;
FEW ARE EXEMPTED

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Washington, May 24.—Emphasis is laid by Brigadier General Crowder, provost marshal, on the fact that no man within the prescribed age limit except those already in the regular service, navy, national guard in federal service or reserve divisions of naval service is excused from registration for military service. Even convicts and alien enemies are required to register, he said. He added, however, that those liable should not confuse registration with actual drafting for service in the army.

The statement points out also the application of the draft and calling selected men to the colors will furnish the opportunity for those who do not believe they could be exempted to submit their claims. The process of selection will be carried out, it adds, "by lot, by the fairest system that can be devised."

Chicago, May 24.—Twenty-two members of the Chicago American league baseball team today registered under the conscription law. Eighteen registered as married men.

Steel's rise was marked by the enthusiasm of the traders, although some of the element for a long time opposed the advance. The new price was, in fact, largely at expense of the short sellers.

RED CROSS ISSUES AN APPEAL FOR 100 COMFORT BAGS NOW

Notify the Society at Once.—All Bags Should Go Through Red Cross to Prevent Confusion.

Appeals are made by the local chapter of the Red Cross and by the men of Company M., to the citizens of Janesville to provide every man in the company with comfort bags. Wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts are all urged to take an active part in this work and to see that when the company is mobilized there will not be a man who is not provided with one of these comfort bags, declared to be such indispensable adjuncts to the happiness and comfort to the men in camp.

People may either make and fit the comfort bags themselves, or by contributing dollar to the Red Cross society, provide for one bag. Over 100 additional bags are needed before the end of June. In order to prevent duplication and to know definitely that each man gets a bag, all who contemplate donating are asked to notify Miss Katherine Jeffris at the office of the Commercial club, at once. Those who believed that there was no man who would make a bag for some individual, such a course is encouraged in all cases, but the Red Cross asks everyone to communicate with them. Tell Miss Jeffris for whom the bag is intended and what the donator is, and conform to the regulations suggested by the society in fitting the bags in so far as is possible.

It is not necessary that the bags all be alike, but a definite knowledge of how many are to be made is desired by that date. Individuals making bags for friends or relatives in the military are asked to give them through the Red Cross, in order that the names may be checked on the list of those unprovided for. By arrangement, the Red Cross is able to purchase the bags and the supplies used in the bags at cost, and these may be obtained at the chapter rooms in the city hall at reduced rates.

All information regarding contents and details of donation may be secured by calling Miss Jeffris at the Commercial club between the hours of nine and twelve-thirty every morning.

Contributions of any amount, either for general Red Cross relief work or for the comfort bags, are gladly accepted and may be turned in to Miss Jeffris at any time. Because mobilization of the state troops is daily growing nearer, all possible speed is provided the men with comfort bags is urged.

Chapter Grows Rapidly.

Through the activities of the executive committee of the local chapter and of a large number of the members, the enrollment has been steadily increased until there are in the neighborhood of seven hundred members in this city. Besides this there are many branches of chapter chapters already organized or in a process of formation. In Edgerton about two hundred and fifty have joined. President H. S. Lovejoy will this evening go to Milton to assist in the establishment of a branch. On next Monday he will form a branch at Milton Junction and on Tuesday will go to Beloit for the same purpose.

There is also one auxiliary already organized at the school for the blind, for the carrying on of special lines of work, and it is believed that others will be created in the immediate future.

Plans are being discussed now for a second big membership drive to be conducted during the first week of June in an effort to increase the enrollment of the local chapter at least a thousand. A telegram received from Secretary Tumulty today state: "The president has decided that instead of a Red Cross day there shall be a Red Cross week.

The full plan for this week's campaign will be outlined at a meeting of the chairman of the chapter finance committee assembled at Red Cross headquarters, Friday, May 25th, at eleven o'clock. The president would like to have as full an attendance as possible at these conferences.

MISS M'LEAN GIVES $400 TO EQUIP ONE AMBULANCE DRIVER

Janesville Young Woman Does Patriotic Service in a Quiet and Unassuming Manner.

Without the knowledge of her friends, Miss Isabel S. MacLean of the Michaelis apartments has performed a patriotic war service of high merit in giving $400 to a Beloit college student to equip him for the American division of the French ambulance corps. The Round Table, the student publication of Beloit college, carries the following account in its latest issue:

"Through the desire of Miss Isabel S. MacLean of Janesville, to aid in the saving of life rather than the destruction of it, Jonathan Weber, 20, has been added to the list of prospective ambulance drivers who leave in June in time for the French front. Miss MacLean has been supporting two French war orphans in Paris since very soon after the war began, and being anxious to still further sacrifice, for her gift is not made from wealth, she has for some time planned to send an American doctorance graduate, however, that the Red Cross had charge of this work, she determined to send an ambulance driver and came to Beloit on Friday to request Dean Collie to aid in finding some student who was either an orphan or did not have relatives who were dependent upon him. The amount then agreed upon was $250.

To Weber's dismay, however, word came Saturday morning from the Chicago headquarters that the amount per man had necessarily been raised to $400. Disheartened, Weber went to Janesville to have Miss MacLean advise him on the methods of raising the additional sum. She immediately told him she would give the full $400, and also offered to send more if after the first six months she should desire to enlist."

AS DAUGHTER WEDS MOTHER IS JAILED

Harvard Woman Begins Sentence Today as Daughter Starts Her Honey-moon.—Sentenced From Beloit.

Wedding bells and the clash of steel bars clang in contrast for Mrs. Minnie Kirschke, mother of Bill and her daughter Pearl yesterday and today while Pearl is wending into a new and hopeful future, the first day of her honeymoon, her heart must be filled with remorse, for simultaneously her mother spent the first day of six months sentence at hard labor in the county jail, in lieu of $250 bail.

With the woman was heavily sentenced for disorderly conduct with Clarence Heller, 10 years her senior, she told Judge Clark in Beloit municipal court that her daughter was being married.

The pair were taken in a police raid at Beloit Tuesday night. Heller was given four months in jail. Later he paid a fine of $25 and costs and was released. Mrs. Kirschke is at the jail here.

"Let me off with a fine, and honest, judge. I'll never set foot back in Wisconsin," the woman pleaded. According to the police, she has had a chance to get out and stay out of Beloit, when warned of the fines that she must suffer, but came back.

The woman admitted she had a husband at Harvard and five children, all under twenty-one years old. Today was the wedding day of one of the girls she said.

She waited expectantly in the city lockup, after declaring "papa will pay my fine and I'll never come back to Wisconsin."

LICOR BILL MAY PROLONG SESSIONS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., May 24.—There is a movement on foot to adjourn the legislature over next week. This is because Memorial Day falls on Wednesday. Some of the members favor a Saturday and Monday session of the legislature with an adjournment of the legislature on Tuesday evening for the remainder of the week, recommending June 4 as definite date. It has been made regarding the matter, although at the present time the sentiments favor a working of the legislature until next Tuesday evening. There are some members, however, who are anxious to have full adjournment all next week. They believe that the legislature should continue its work on Saturday, May 27, and reconvene on June 4.

The introduction of new legislation, caused by the vote not vetoing the state expenditure bill, gives promise of continuing the legislature into early summer. There is every indication that an effort will be made to prevent the introduction of the bill in the assembly. The rules provide that a committee can introduce a bill at any time, but that an individual cannot introduce a bill if objection is raised except on a suspension of those rules, which require a two-thirds vote. Governor Phillips' bill prohibiting the sale of whiskies in the state and the sale of beer containing more than three percent alcohol, to take effect July 1, 1917, was offered in the lower house by Assemblyman George Carpenter of Sauk County. Carpenter is a member of the county council of defense. An effort is on foot to prevent, if possible, the introduction of the bill. From present indications the thirty-three members who voted at all times for the Evjue referendum bill in every form, will vote as a unit in favor of the reception of the Carpenter measure. A bill of this character will probably necessitate hearings which will prolong the session of the legislature somewhat.

At the commencement of this week 145 separate bills remain for consideration in the upper house, and 110 assembly bills remain for consideration in the lower house.

On this principle my business has grown because I sell a tire that cuts down upkeep to a fair and reasonable figure.

People ask how far will this tire run? I tell them we rarely see a Diamond that won't go five thousand miles. Yet Diamonds are PRICED on a basis of only three thousand five hundred miles.

There is no "velvet" in the price, but plenty of "velvet" in Diamond mileage.

We carry a complete line of sizes in stock and can fill your tire wants immediately. If you can't come, telephone.

AN INJUSTICE.

Two wrongs never make a right and congress had best go slow before they seek to inflict new hardships upon the newspapers of the United States by imposing an almost prohibitive tax on transportation of their papers by mail, and yet at the same time do not seek to curb the wasteful franking privilege which each member of congress enjoys and often abuses woefully. Leslie's Weekly calls attention to the injustice of congress in this respect when it says:

"It sometimes seems as if our legislators at Washington were determined to vent their spite on newspapers and magazines at every opportunity. Yet occasionally a good word is heard for the publisher even in our halls of congress. No better spokesman for the press could be found than Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, owner of the Omaha World-Herald and for many years a successful publisher. During a recent discussion in the senate, Mr. Hitchcock said: 'I have been a newspaper man for thirty years and I have never found in any community of any size the lack of some paper that would stand up for the public interest in an emergency. Today the newspapers are giving thousands of dollars' worth of space gratuitously and enthusiastically. Ten million dollars would not suffice for the publicity which can be got free in the next six months.' And while all the newspapers and magazines are giving up their space so liberally to aid the government, stimulate enlistments, and promote the general welfare, a few narrow-minded congressmen are seeking to double and quadruple the postal rate that publications have been paying for the past quarter of a century. Wipe out the press and you have struck a blow at the government itself. Let legislators consider this fact."

The government continually asks, urges, entreats and demands, that the newspapers give free publicity to various items which they consider valuable to their own use. They are the greatest seekers after free publicity known to the newspaper business, and yet they are short-sighted enough to seek to curtail the value of this publicity by attempting to pass a law which would increase the cost of production of the average news sheet and consequently tend to decrease its circulation. It is burning the candle at both ends and the middle will soon be reached unless a halt is called in such unwise legislation.

THE DRAFT.

On June 5th the registration for the selective draft will be made. It is obligatory that all register, and the following special provisions explain the matter in a nutshell and would be well to be heeded.

"No one within the age prescribed by law, and above referred to is exempt from registration except officers and enlisted men of the regular army, navy, the marine corps, and the National Guard, and naval militia, while in active service of the United States, and officers in the officers' reserve corps and enlisted men in the reserve corps while in active service.

"Those who are sick and those who expect to be absent on the day of registration in cities of over thirty thousand population, should at once apply to the city clerk, and in all other sections to their respective county clerks for registration cards, and file the same in their respective precincts on registration day. Persons absent from their homes attending schools, colleges, and other institutions, will be treated as absentedees and should register under the rules prescribed for such persons."

Inmates of reformatories, penitentiaries, houses of correction and other penal institutions also must register.

For failure to register the law provides an imprisonment for not more than one year. For false statements as to the fitness or inability of himself or any other persons the same punishment is provided. This means everyone.

THE LIBERTY LOAN.

While congress is passing laws tending to raise billions, still they have appropriated more billions than will be received by the increased taxation, and must raise this vast sum by sale of the so-called Liberty loan bonds. Unfortunately the men behind the movement failed to appreciate the value of taking prospective customers into their confidence and explaining all details of the loan through the medium of the regular channels of publicity. The bonds are perfectly good and the money thus raised will all be spent in this country, purchasing supplies for the allied nations and in keeping the wheels of industry moving. However, the first step was fatal and the bonds do not sell as quickly as they should, all due to lack of proper advertising.

GIVEN CREDIT.

The English admiralty reports of the marine activity for the past week shows a decrease in the submarine perils and places the credit for this largely upon the shoulders of the commanders of the United States vessels now in foreign waters. The arrival in London of the hospital contingents and also of the engineers regiment are noted and dispatches from France tell of the plans made for the reception of General Pershing and his corps. It really looks as though the United States was going to get to the front, after all, in mighty quick order. Once there, they will give a good account of themselves.

OBSOLETE SHELLS.

It would appear that someone blundered and furnished the armed merchant ships with guns equipped with obsolete shells, which made them worthless. The death of the two nurses by one of these left-overs from the Spanish-American war brought the defect to the attention of the authori-

TOUGH LUCK

As for a Memory so fickle,
So weak and so very remiss!
It's put in a beautiful pickle
The wrench of a writer of this;
The latter is walling in curses,
The former had thought of a wheeze
An elegant joke for some verse,
Such verses as these,—

It came in a moment unbidden,
The writer was tying his shoe,
It's meaning was subtle and hidden,
Cried he, "I am sure it is new!
A world will be weak with the laughter."

That one little jest will excite
And snicker and chuckle hereafter
At all that I write!"

He sought of the laurels accruing,
He thought of the honor and fame,
He planned all the things he'd be doing.

With money he'd get for the same;
He'd travel to China and back, he'd Be wed or— He paused with a choke.
He fell in a fit. For alack, he'd Forgotten the joke!

TODAY'S SNEER
Some Opportunity knocks at every Person and Some Persons knock at Every Opportunity.

It used to be that one doctor was enough for six members of the family, and now we need six doctors for one member of the family.

Sprinkle the Lawn.

There should be a law made that no one is to sprinkle a lawn unless he can prove it is indeed a sound Much trouble has resulted from the sprinkling of lawns by persons of weak minds. If a man has any tendencies to lunacy they will appear the moment he starts sprinkling.
He may try to fight back the feelings, but he knows that sooner or later he is going to do something horrible with the hose. Most all of us have these feelings, but we are strong enough to down them. The weak man or the man with the weak mind is not. He trembles to think that an monkey a man might come up the street with a straw hat or a plain Booth suit. There are things that everyone would like to do with a hose if they only dared. Someday some of us are going to try them all.

And hold off the posse of neighbors with the hose.

ARMY DISCIPLINE.
An officer in an army training camp remarks that one of the worst difficulties the army meets is the American boy's lack of training in obedience. Our young recruits are splendid fellows, as alert and clean as those of any race on earth. But American boy discipline is loose.

Plenty of orders are issued to the young folks, but in comparatively few families are those orders followed up and obedience insisted upon. The American boy listens amiably, and then goes and does as he pleases. We are a good natured people and punishment goes against our grain. The American boy comes out of it selfreliant, but without much recognition of authority. It will go hard with boys developed in this atmosphere to submit to the strict regimen of army life.

Many of the regulations will seem arbitrary and without any basis in reason to the boys. They will want to stop and argue, and may land in the guard house for disrespect. Yet army life is built on the idea of instant obedience. Only thus can a group of men acquire the habit of action as a unit. The soldier who is allowed to use his own discretion in one thing will try to use it at the wrong time in the moment of conflict. He may then endanger his own life. He may then endanger those of others by his individual action.

It is the unity of a military force that gives it its striking power. The doing of things all in one second, the exact precision of action, makes a company of men formidable and multiplies many times the effect of individual action. To secure that unity the habit of instant obedience must be acquired until it becomes involuntary.

"They're not to reason why," is the motto. The private soldier must assume that his officers have had a better training, and that they are in possession of wider information than he has, and that there is a good reason for every order. As a matter of fact discipline is a great safeguard. Every moment insubordination is quelled and irregular action avoided, a body of men are enabled to protect themselves to the best advantage.

Russia evidently does not care for

It is predicted that wooden shoes will come into use and if so the peo-

After denouncing the foreign plot-

The sum has only to stand still

MAD DOG.

"Mad dog! Mad dog!" A young man in a brilliant checked suit and a brilliant red necktie uttered the magic words first.

Within the next three minutes they were uttered by a stout lady with a gold tooth, a thin gentleman with a hole in his left spat, a boy, a gay-faced messenger boy, a toad-skinned play-wright, a little red-headed girl with an unruled voice, a one armed professor of Ethiopian dialects, and four hundred others, each different in his way, whom space forbids us to mention.

Meanwhile, with the yelling crowd still headed by the fat young man at its heels, the lot in question sped like lightning down Gurgie street over Yorkie lane, through McPass's windows and was finally overtaken at End street and Beginning avenue.

With a deaf movement, the first young man picked the little animal up by the ruffle of the neck, wiped the shaving soap lather from its face, tucked it beneath his coat, and faced the cheering mob with an ingratiating smile.

It was Nullum Void, the world's liveliest press agent.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he announced, "this card and two dollars cash will admit you free of charge to a performance of 'A Gay Dog,' the greatest show ever produced anywhere by anyone I have seen."

And casting eight hundred coupoons into the air for the crowd to scrounge for, he departed for another section of town.

INTEREST FARMERS IN LIBERTY BONDS

TWO VOLUNTEERS FROM CHICAGO FEDERAL RESERVE BANK WILL CANVASS THREE COUNTIES.

MAY TALK TO BOARD

Plan to Secure a Hearing Before County Supervisors at Their Meeting on Friday.

Edward J. Prehn and C. V. Price, volunteer representatives of the Chicago federal reserve bank, in the interest of the government's liberty loan, arrived in Janesville yesterday and began work with reference to their work for the war bonds in southern Wisconsin. They have been assigned to three counties, Rock, Green and Lafayette.

To Interest Farmers.

The solicitors announced that they were especially concerned in interesting the farmers of the region in the war bonds. The banks and patriotic organizations in the cities were taking care of the urban situation, but the farmers have not been approached in any systematic way, they pointed out. It is probable that Mr. Prehn and Mr. Price will secure a hearing before the county board of supervisors at their meeting on Friday, at which they will appeal to the rural members to arouse interest in their various communities.

The fact that the town chairmen on the board are also the chairmen of their precinct committees of the defense council will have weight in furthering the war loan campaign. At the meeting of the executive committee of the county defense council on May 31, the problem of the war bond sale will also be discussed.

An authoritative statement by J. R. Wheeler of Columbus, member of the state council of defense and president of the Wisconsin Bankers association, has been issued by the state council to clear up false impressions which have been gained in some parts of the state regarding the liberal loan.

Mr. Wheeler said:

A Matter of Patriotism.

"The state council of defense believes that it is necessary for the people of the state to understand the circumstances that surround what is known as the 'liberty loan.' It is one form of patriotism in which nearly every citizen can take part, and it is the duty of every citizen financially able to do so to subscribe for some part of this loan, no matter how small the amount.

The liberty loan is to be $2,000,000,000 in the aggregate, and the amount is expected to be subscribed in small amounts. This is the real purpose of the loan. The bonds are issued in denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000. While many persons cannot afford a $1,000 investment, the average salaried man or wage earner can afford to subscribe for one of the smaller bonds.

"The citizen who considers such an action should remember the following facts: Wisconsin's share of the loan of $2,000,000,000 is $8,000,000. The apportionment to each community is 6 percent of its bank resources.

"The bonds draw 3½ percent interest.

"The bonds are free from taxation, except from inheritance taxes."

"The investment is absolutely safe. The citizen who subscribes for a bond is making an investment which will result in payment to himself, and at the same time he is responding to an appeal from the nation for patriotic service.

People Must Subscribe.

"It must be remembered that the banks cannot be expected to take this loan, for the reason which will be understood by everyone that their assets cannot be tied up. It is necessary for the people to subscribe, inasmuch as this is the only way they can afford.

"To float this loan of $2,000,000,000 will require one million subscriptions of $2,000 each. In Germany the last loan was subscribed by 5,250,000 individuals. Americans should be and are as patriotic as the citizens of Germany."

"In all other emergencies Wisconsin never has failed the nation. The state council is confident that in this opportunity to serve the state will be among the first to respond."

ASSEMBLY PASSES FINANCE MEASURE AFTER LONG DEBATE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., May 24.—The Wisconsin assembly last night after three hours' debate passed the finance committee bill appropriating $130,000 to the state industrial commission annually.

The industrial commission claims it will be unable to carry out safety work, minimum wage and efficient administration of the workmen's compensation law on the amount recommended by the finance committee.

As passed, the bill provides that "any person" can file a petition with the county clerk asking that the license be not granted. The governor argues that no person except a parent, near relative or guardian should have this right.

The executive also suggests that instead of permitting the county court to refuse a license, the object should be made to show that the court cannot sustain objections unless they be for fraud or some of the legal grounds which would make the parties incompetent to marry.

The objections of the governor, if upheld by the legislature, will make marriage more simple than contemplated in the act as passed.

A bill covering the points raised by the governor has been introduced.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been reading your column with interest and am glad to say that although I do not see things just like you do, I do not advise every girl to follow your advice if she wants to be on the safe side.

I noticed with interest the statement made by one of your readers that he would not go with a girl that did not care enough for him to give him a good-night kiss and that he has never seen a fellow that would.

If a young man insists on kissing you and you do not believe in it you can be kind but yet firm in your principles and if the fellow amounts to nothing you will not lose him if he doesn't amount to anything.

Yours truly, MR. EXPERIENCE.

Your interest in my column is appreciated.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is there any hope in shaping the nose to fit out deep fallen nostrils? How long does it take? (2) Can a cream eradicate the laughing wrinkles? (3) If the lower lip is big is there any hope in making it more attractive? (4) What can be done to make eyebrows heavy? BROWNIE.

(1) The only hope of filling out your nostrils lies in faithful and frequent massaging with a skin food. Use the cream at night and in the morning. It will take a long time to notice any change—I cannot say how long.

(2) Wrinkles can be removed, if a person is not old. Cocoa Butter is excellent for filling up the tissues of the skin. ## HEALTH TALKS

DYSPEPSIA

Disturbance of any organ of the body may produce "stomach trouble." Indeed, in actual hospitals and private practice, out of 15,500 cases of dyspepsia (not my cases, thank heaven) 12,612 were due to conditions which had nothing to do with the stomach or other digestive organs.

In that awful series, 15,500 cases of dyspepsia referred to the actual diagnosis were various. Most frequent were simple over-eating, abdominal and intestinal spasms from suds and kinks in the food tube.

The second great cause of chronic or long-continued "stomach trouble" was heart failure. Heart failure, as I have stated before, is always a slow process. Don't think you can slip out once in a while with some cheap good-for-nothing fellow and make your friend think you are being true to him. It doesn't work long.

If a young man insists on kissing you and you do not believe in it you can be kind but yet firm in your principles and if the fellow amounts to nothing you will not lose him if he doesn't amount to anything.

You are fortunate to find it out so easily.

Yours truly, MR. EXPERIENCE.

Some twenty miles back from the town at a place where the valley was narrowed to a quarter of a mile, and separating it from the paralleling ravine, rose a huge sandstone rock called Spanish Mesa. Its top, some hundreds of feet higher than the tree-clad base of the hills, was mainly level. From its high elevation the country could be seen for many miles, mountains on one hand, plains on the other. It stood like an island in a sea of verdure. Little spurs and ridge-crests from it toward the range it descended and contrived into a narrow saddle, vulgarly known as a "hog-back," where the granite of the mountains was hidden under deep covering of grass-grown earth, which formed the only division between the valley and the gorge or ravine, before the land, widening, rose into the next hill.

The people came from miles away to see that interesting and curious mesa, much more striking in its appearance than Baldwin's knob, the last foothill below it. Transcontinental travelers even broke journey to visit it. The town prospered accordingly, especially as it was admirably situated as place of departure for hunters, explorers, prospectors and adventurers, who sought what they craved in the wild hills. There were one or two good hotels for tourists, unusually extensive general stores of the better class, where hunting and prospecting parties could be outfitted, and the high-living extravagant cattle ranchers could get what they demanded. Besides all these there were the modest homes of the lovers of the rough and exhilarating and health-giving life of the Rocky mountains. Of course there were numerous saloons and gambling halls, and the town was the haunt of cowboys, busters, miners, Indians—the old frontier with a few touches of civilization added!

What was left of the river, which had made the valley—and during the infrequent periods of rain too brief to be known as the rainy season, it really lived up to the name of river—flowed merrily through the town, when it flowed at all, under the name of Picket Wire. When the railroad came the Picket Wire had been first studied in the hope of finding a practicable way over the mountains, but the ravine on the other side of the mesa had been found to offer a shorter and more practicable route. And, by the way, this ravine, taking its name from the little brook far down in its narrows was known as the "Klicking Horse."

So the railroad ran up the ravine and the Picket Wire was left still virgin to the assaults of man. But the day came when it was despoiled of its little long standing, unavenged innocence. Shoots of men cracking of whips, trampling of horses, groaning of whores, worthless but vocal protests of beasts of burden mingled with the ringing of axes, the detonations of dynamite. The whistles of engines and the roar of steam filled the valley. Under the direction of engineers, a huge mound of earth arose across its narrowest part, nearest a shoulder, or spur, of the mesa reaching westward. No more should the silver Picket Wire flow unbroken on its way to the sea. It was to be dammed.

All that the huge, hot Inferno of baked plain, where sage brush and buffalo grass alone grow, needed to make itбургон with wheat and corn was water. The little Picket Wire, which had meandered and sparkled and chattered on at its own sweet will was now to be held until it filled a great lake-like reservoir in the hills back of the new earth dam. Then through skillfully located irrigation ditches the water was to be given to the millions of hungry little wheateats and cornots which would clamor for a drink. The fierce sun was no longer to work its unwholesome will in burning up the prairie.

With the promise of water on the plain beyond, Colorado sprang into newer and more vigorous life. In the language of the West it "boomed." The railroad had been a forlorn branch running up into the mountains and ending nowhere. Its first builders had been daunted by difficulties and lack of money, but as soon as the great dam was projected, which would open several hundred thousand acres for cultivation and serve as an inspiration in its practical results to other similar attempts, people came swarming into the country buying up the land, the price for acreage steadily mounting. The railroad accordingly found it worth while to take up the long-abandoned construction work of mounting the range and crossing it. Men suddenly observed that it was the shortest distance between two cardinal points, and one of the great transcontinental railways bought it and began improving it to replace its original rather unsatisfactory line.

EXPERT FIGURES ARE SOME GOOD ANYWAY.

The long wooden trestle which crossed the broad, sandy depression in front of the town, the bed of the ancient river, through which the Picket Wire and further down its affluent, the Klicking Horse, flowed humbly and modestly, was being replaced by a great viaduct of steel. Far up the gorge past the other side of the Spanish Mesa another higher trestle had already been replaced by a splendid steel arch. A siding had been built near the ravine, a path made to the foot of the mesa, and arrangements were being made to run a local train up from the town when all was completed to give the people an opportunity to ride up the gorge and see the great pile of rock, on which enterprise was already planning the desecration of a sunnier hotel, the blasphemy of an amusement park!

Up the valley of the Picket Wire one morning in early fall came a young man roughly dressed like the average strain as might come when a man is about to enter upon a course of action, to take a strange or perilous step, such a little shiver in his speech as a naked man might feel in his body before he plunged into the icy waters of the wintry sea.

"I am."

"I'd like a job."

"We have no use for cow-punchers on this dam."

"I'm not exactly a cow-puncher, sir."

"What are you?"

"Look here," said the man, smiling a little. "I've been out in this country long enough to learn that all that it is necessary to know about a man is 'Will he make good?' Let us say that I am nothing and let it go at that!"

"Out of nothing, nothing comes," laughed the engineer, genuinely amused.

Some men would have been angry, but Vandeventer rather enjoyed this.

"I didn't say I was good for nothing," answered the other man, smiling in turn, though he was evidently serious enough in his application.

"Well, what can you do? Are you an engineer?"

"We'll pass over the last question, too, if you please. I think I could carry a rod if I had a chance and there was a vacancy."

"Umph," said Vandeventer, "you think you could?"

"Yes, sir. Give me a trial."

"All right, take that rod over there and go out on the edge of the dam where that stake shows, and I'll take a sight on it."

Now there are two ways—a hundred perhaps—of holding a rod; one right way and all the others wrong. A newcomer invariably grasps it tightly in his fist and jams it down, conceiving that the only way to get it plumb and hold it steady. The experienced man strives to balance it erect on its own base and holds it with the tips of his fingers on either side in an upright position, swaying it very slightly backward and forward. He does it unconsciously, too.

Vandeventer had been standing by a level already set up when the newcomer arrived and the rod was lying on the ground beside it. The latter picked it up without a word, walked rapidly to the stake, loosened the target, and balanced the rod upon the stake. As soon as Vandeventer observed that his new seeker after work held the rod in the right way, he did not trouble to take the sight. He threw his head backward and raised his hand, beckoning.

"It so happens," he began, "that I can give you a job. The rodman next in line of promotion has been given the level. One of the men went East last night. You can have the job, which is—"

"I don't care anything about the details," said the man quickly and gladly. "It's the work I want."

"Well, you'll get what the rest do," said Vandeventer. "Now, as you justly remarked, I have found that it is not polite out here to inquire too closely into a man's antecedents and I have learned to respect local customs, but we must have some name by which to identify you, make out your pay check, and—"

"Do you pay in checks?"

"No, but you have to sign a check."

"Well, call me Smith."

Vandeventer threw back his head and laughed. The other man turned a little red. The chief engineer observed the glint in his new friend's eye.

"I'm not exactly laughing at you," he explained, "but at the singular lack of inventiveness of the American. We have at least thirty Smiths out of two hundred men on our pay roll, and it is a bit confusing. Would you mind selecting some other name?"

TIMELY ADVICE TO SOLDIER BEGINNERS

By CAPTAIN GEORGE L. KILMER.

"Rejected!" It sends the heart of a young patrol down with a thud to have that verdict pronounced on his effort to be a soldier. He may have lived the life of a hero for weeks dreaming of the glorious deeds before him and the noble sacrifice he would make upon the altar of his country. Snubbed and disgraced is the first thought in his own mind and maybe in that of comrades and friends. Yet the defect may be physical and not something which the applicant could have helped by personal endeavor. Half an inch too short, six months un-

learned to respect local customs, but we must have some name by which to identify you, make out your pay check, and—"

PARADE REST.

One day, as Pat halted at the top of the river bank, a man famous for his inquisitive mind stopped and asked:

How long have you hauled water for the village, my good man?"

"Ten years, sir."

"Ah, how many loads do you take in a day?"

"From ten to fifteen, sir."

"Ah, yes! Now I have a problem for you. How much water at this rate have you hauled in all?"

The driver of the watering cart jerked his thumb backward toward the river and replied:

"All the water yez don't see there now, sir."

Mr. Lovelaw was one of those people who, on every occasion, consulted a solicitor. Nothing pleased him more than to go to law. The lawyers regarded him as an invaluable asset.

"I have been grossly insulted!" he exclaimed, rushing into the office of his solicitor for the seventh time in three days.

"In what way?" asked the solicitor somewhat wearily.

"My next door neighbor says I'm German, and has declared he will pull my nose next time he meets me. What shall I do about it?"

"Well," said the lawyer, as if he had given the case due deliberation, "I should sue it, then it will slip through his fingers. Goodbye. My bill will follow in due course."

A visitor at the capitol was accompanied by his small son. The little boy watched from the gallery when the house came to order.

"Why did the minister pray for all those men, papa?" he questioned.

"He didn't. He looked 'em over and prayed for the country," was the answer.

BADGER CHICKEN RAISERS IN NATIONAL REFERENDUM

Wisconsin members of the American Poultry association are in receipt of blanks from Secretary E. B. Campbell, Mansfield, O., asking them to vote along with their brethren of other states on this vital question:

"Shall the American Poultry association forego the annual meeting in 1917 and use the funds that it would make available for this purpose in furthering the campaign to produce a hundred million more pounds of poultry to help out the food situation in this country?"

The chances are that the result of the vote, to be canvassed by the officials at headquarters, will be favorable to the question.

National Bureau Well Organized.

Poultrymen in Wisconsin, including 1,500 members of the A. P. A. resident here, are lending support to the National Bureau of Poultry Information, conducted at Chicago under the direction of the American Poultry association and allied clubs.

James G. Halpin, college of agriculture, Madison, is chairman of the special committee of this organization entrusted with the giving out of instructions in hatching and brooding.

M. L. Bower, Hammonton, N. J., and M. V. Thernichlen, Portland, Ind., are the other members of the committee.

Harlo J. Fliske, Oconomowoc, is one of the committee on the Wisconsin state aid to help push the poultry work.

"A Helpful Guide to Beginners" is the title of a pamphlet issued recently by the National Bureau. Copies will be sent to amateurs who wish to recruit the poultry army to war strength but who do not fully understand the rules of procedure.

Former Badger Poultryman Busy in East.

J. C. Graham, a former student of the art of poultry husbandry at the College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, and one time supervisor of pools in the city of Oshkosh, is now engaged in leading a big drive for more hen coops through the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst.

He is now issuing circulars of from one to two pages, brim-full of short, pithy material, capable of being put to practical use by people not familiar with the ins and outs of the business.

Hatching Summer Hatched Chicks for Broilers.

It appears that Wisconsin poultry plants, large and small, will need to do the unusual this year by raising a goodly number of June hatched chicks. The high price of meat will warrant such measures, it is believed, and late chicks can be grown rapidly on many farms at small cost.

However, Mr. G. Halpin, Madison, has to say about it:

"June hatched chicks should be allowed the range of fields not used by the other chicks and hens. If placed on a fresh range they will find bugs and worms and so require less feed. The edge of a corn field is an ideal place for the summer chicks."

Experiments should be paid to in establishing the newly hatched chicks with shade. Baby chicks put out in the sun often do not grow well. Place the brooder or chick coop under a shade tree if possible, or else make a small artificial shade

LEONARD'S CHANCE AGAINST WELSH IS BEST HE CAN GET

Benny Leonard, New York's wonder lightweight, will have to just make the best of it and try with all his might when he meets Freddie Welsh next Monday night in New York. He never will get a real, long-distance chance at Freddie's title, nor will he ever get a short chance in a state where decisions can be given.

Leonard's record is enough to shoot a streak of gooseflesh up Welsh's back bone. He has broken off with a rash of knockouts, downing one over the chin and out, and healthy list of young men who have come up until they fast the flying fists of the New Yorker. A string of knockouts is something the British Dodger never had attached to his name. In fact there are very few instances in which the champion's young and healthy list of fighters has been beaten when an observer can find it after the bout is over.

In the third meeting between the two boys, some time ago, when Leonard hadn't perfected a knock 'em dead punch, Welsh agreed to meet him and was given the surprise of his championship life. Welsh was in poor condition and was given a sound beating by the youngster. Then they were matched again. The bout was held at Madison Park, Brooklyn. The triumphant Welsh gave Leonard in that encounter will be remembered as the most thorough thing that ever happened to a young skinning light. Welsh punched holes in Leonard's defense and he moved so fast Leonard never was able to do more than lay a fewish darts on him.

The third meeting will come after long drilling and training on the part of Leonard. Having once defeated the champion he has felt ever since that it need only the proper condition to give him the chance to knock the title from Welsh's head onto his own.

Billy Gibson took Leonard into retirement shortly after he started handing his affairs, and he announced—having to the knowledge of the sporting public—that Leonard was developing a Joe Gans punch. Joe, the old-timers will remember, had a habit of dropping his fist on an opponent's jaw from almost any angle, so that the fight was over.

Leonard came out after working on this punch and began to lay out his opponents with the right hand the dead-mitt. But he is able to smash away with either hand. In fact, he uppercuts with the off-paw with fully as much vigor and accuracy as the average boxer does with the right one. His punching is fast, his blocking excellent. He is the fastest worker among the lightweights. It is a fine workman at putting his man out. And he has the best chance to become the world's lightweight champion that has been for a boxer since Welsh came into doubtful possession of the crown.

The end of boxing in New York state probably will see Welsh's frequent—for keeps. When they take away the big boxing center where he has been able to be born without losing his title, he doubtless will be compelled to stop stalling and go to work on his health farm. Hence, it behoves Leonard to work fast and hard when he enters the ring with Welsh.

The showing of the lightweight champion against Johnnie Kinnick tomorrow night in their recent New York meeting will again bring in favor of Leonard. There will be plenty of betting, no doubt, that Leonard will stop the champion. The fans realize that Welsh is on the decline and they will expect to see a new lightweight champion after the Monday night go.

Clinton Larson, the Brigham Young University high jumper, who clearing into the altitude limit by clearing six feet 7 1/2 inches, never failed to jump over six feet in preliminary contests at Provo. Tomorrow he will jump 6 feet 8 inches before the year is over. He comes to his takeoff at full speed and makes a semi-broad jump in his flight. With a little expert instruction may establish a world's mark.

Fred Moltwitz, former Red and Cub, who is now with Kansas City, has been suspended for taking a punch at Umphy Chil, who was in the American League last year.

The Phillies' pitchers are rapidly improving. Nothing like having the great Alexander to set an example!

BASEBALL AS IT IS AT FELLOWS STATION

A Correspondent's Story of Players Melting and Having Shaking Knees In the Rural District.

Lynn Kuelz of Fellows Station aspires to be a sporting writer and so he sent us the following account of session of the national pastime. Lynn, with a little bit of training and quite a lot of work to perfect his spelling and his English, might be a baseball scribe, but at the present time his teacher would give him a red mark for his spelling and his construction, but then a lot of baseball writers get by with worse English than Lynn uses. Here's his vivid account of the defeat of the Fellows Station Champs.

Fellows Station, May 23.—A quite a day of excitement ensued here Sunday afternoon when the Fellows Station baseball team clashed with the Pick-up team, defeated the Fellows Station team by an overwhelming score of 29 to 4. It being a great surprise to them for their claimed the championship of Wisconsin for a team of their size, but Sunday when they met this new team they almost melted. But next Sunday they will be ready with shaking knees when they will battle for the second time with this new team.

The Battery for the Station team was as follows, Fenwick, Rook, and Schroeder, but if this pick-up team defeats the champs Sunday they will have the right to claim the championship.

DR. WAITE WILL DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR MURDER OF TWO

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Ossining, N. Y., May 24.—The "little green door" opens for Dr. Arthur Warren Waite at Sing Sing prison tonight, and the electric chair's deadly current will jerk out his life in payment for the murder of his wife's father and mother.

Dr. Waite has been prepared for his end for months, declaring his readiness to expire his sin by death, in the belief that he could enter "the new world" at peace.

The murder of Waite's father-in-law, John E. Peck of Grand Rapids, Mich., and his mother-in-law, by poison, was by the use of arsenic, same night in the spring of last year. Mrs. Peck died January 26, 1916. Her husband's life ended March 12, 1916. Waite admitted he planned to kill his wife also.

Driven by a desperate need of money to maintain himself in luxurious surroundings, Waite went about his poisonings methodically and with deadly coolness; a Georgia might have manifested. His gay parties and entertainments, his nights of music and mirth, were founded upon the agonies of his victims, slowly dying of arsenic poisoning and suffering from the ravages of bacilli with which he inoculated them, all of which he determined to possess first. His family fortune, he rested in magnificent apartment on Riverside Drive, spent his days on the tennis courts or motoring, loafed for hours in the sumuous splendor of his studio, and returned from his revels to prepare deadly cultures of germs, administered behind a mask of smiling solicitude.

Waite boasted his deeds on a super-natural influence which he called "the Magic Power of Egypt." This mysterious force, he asserted, periodically took hold of his body and brain, and forced them to do its bidding. He declared himself helpless when clutching by this intangible power.

Overwhelmed by debts, he married Clara Louise Peck, before September 3, 1916. In a few weeks his bride materialized. His wife, another, took him and died after a lingering illness during which Waite slowly poisoned her. He glistened at her bedside until the last, acting a part of tender sympathy, bringing flowers and words of comfort. Arsenic caused Peck's death under similar circumstances. As Peck grew weaker, Waite obtained diphtheria and typhoid fever, experimenting on his own body, then infected the dying man.

Shortly before his arrest, Waite maintained a studio apartment at the Plaza hotel, where he was visited by a woman. When seized in his Riverside Drive home he was unconscious, having taken an overdose of arsenic. The police approached, insinuating he pleaded at his trial. Witnesses testified he had been doing cruel and irrational things ever since his college days.

GOVERNOR DESIGNATES JUNE 5TH AS DUTY DAY

have registered, and to report those who have not registered to the proper registration board for such action as may be necessary. Police officers may require any person to exhibit his registration certificate.

No Man Should Shirk

It will be observed that the penalties of the law are severe, and I hope that no man will subject to registration will attempt to shirk his duty in this respect. There is no possible escape from it, because those who may attempt to do so will be apprehended in course of time and will be obliged to submit to the punishment provided by law.

I call upon all citizens, patriotic to our country, to register, and to encourage others to do the same. To do this is the duty of every citizen, to succeed in making the registration successful, to assure that every person who can do so make an effort to notify every man whom he knows to be of military age, remind him of the fact that it is registration day, in order that he may not subject himself to the penalties of the law by reason of neglect, or because of the fact that he has not received a personal notice. If you have a friend who is fearful, remind him that June fifth is the day upon which he must register.

Our country is involved in a great war. The registration of our young men who are of military age is the first act by the government that makes no reading that we are engaged in war. No man can ignore his country's call, and no one should let that the people of Wisconsin will respond without a murmur. They responded to the call of the country, in the wars of former days—they will do so now.

The president wishes us to understand that this is not a draft, but a selection. That to be drafted for military service means that the law means that this person, so drafted has no right physically to refuse to render service as a soldier, and is asked by the government to do what we would expect him to volunteer to do.

To Be Memorable Day.

I recommend to the citizens of the state that June fifth be made a memorable day in the history of the state of Wisconsin, that flags be displayed on public buildings, private homes, and that those who go to the booth and register with the expectation of rendering a service, will receive the applause that is due a patriotic citizen.

The day should be known by an appropriate name, and I suggest to the people and to the press of the state that we refer to it as DUTY DAY.

Finally, express the hope to the people that the proclamation of the president will be coupled with an effort to see that all persons who are subject to it, that the unpleasantry of inflicting punishment may be avoided, and that you will enable me to say to the president of the United States, at nine o'clock in the evening of June fifth, that Wisconsin stands ready to furnish her quota of soldiers to the nation.

(Signed)

EMANUEL L. PHILIPP,

Governor.

MARKET DEPARTMENT PROVIDED IN A BILL BY SENATOR SKOGMO

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 24.—A separate department to have charge of the marketing problems is expressed in a substitute bill which has been offered in the upper house by Senator Skogmo. The measure will come up for consideration on Friday. The bill decides that the marketing of farm products is affected with a public interest, and creates a market director to carry out the provisions of the act. The first appointment shall expire on January 1, 1919, and thereafter this office shall be appointed for a term of six years on confirmation of the senate. This director must have certain qualifications, according to the terms of the substitute bill. He shall have a practical knowledge of shipping, grading, packing and preparing for market fruits, dairy and farm products. He shall manage in no other business, will not hold the office nor hold any stock or interest whatsoever in any commission business, wholesale or retail produce business, cold storage, warehouse or transportation company engaged in the distribution of farm products. The governor is empowered to remove the market director for misconduct. The market director shall receive $5,000 conditioned for the faithful performance of the duties of the office. The salary of the director shall be $5,000 annually with all necessary traveling expenses.

Duties of Director.

The duties of the market director shall consist of collecting such farm products as may be necessary to supply the demands of the people of the state of Wisconsin and in finding markets for the principal food products in the state of Wisconsin. This director is authorized to make all necessary rules and regulations in order to prevent dealers from overcharging marksmen, and he shall effect the arrangements to get the principal markets, cooperative associations and shall protect the people of the state against the unfair manipulation of farm products by dealers.

The bill provides that the director shall give full advice to towns as to the successful operation of municipal markets. He shall cooperate with the offices of marketing in the United States Department of Agriculture and the Agricultural Commissioner and with the Dairy and Food Commissioners or other departments or agencies.

The market director may require any person engaged in the marketing or storage of farm products within the state to prepare and submit a statement of such products at such time as he may prescribe, reporting of the quantity and quality of each of any farm product or products held by or for such person in storage in this state," declares the bill. "In case of emergency creating or threatening to create a scarcity of farm products within the state, the market director is authorized to take such relief as he may deem to be advisable to the public welfare."

In order to keep in touch with the needs of the people of the state the market director is empowered to ask the various co-operative or other organizations of producers, distributors and consumers of the state to send or more persons according to the importance of the industry as determined by the director, to present to the director the respective problems of the organizations they represent and advise him how best to solve those problems for the public welfare.

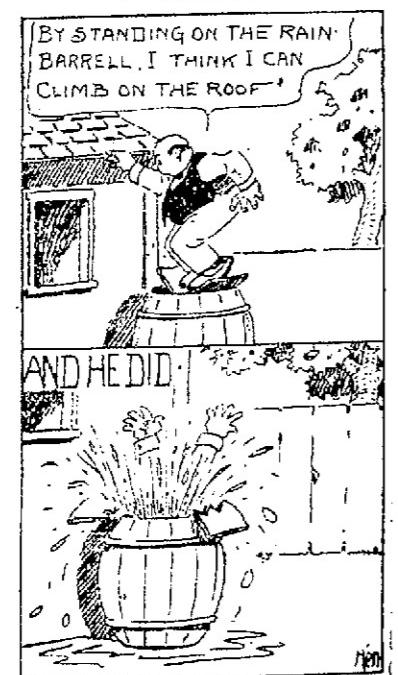

The director may likewise call for the opinion, advice, and cooperation of bankers, railroad operators, and any other agency or individual whose advice or information may be helpful in solving the various problems of the division of marketing.

Shall Collect Fees.

Full power to investigate is given to the director or his department. The market director is supposed to make his office self-supporting, so far as possible. The director is authorized to collect and receive from each of the various co-operative associations, cities and towns requesting shipments, or being benefited by the services of the state market department, such fees and charges as shall not exceed the usual cost of such service.

Money collected shall be turned into the treasury, and there is an annually appropriated $25,000 for the support of this department.

If this bill is passed, it is to take effect July 1, 1917.

America Preparing

Washington, May 24.—One half-cup of milk wasted daily by every family in the United States would involve a total waste of $1,500,000, based on the production of 400,000 cows, the Department of Agriculture estimates today in a bulletin arguing war economy.

Vacation Farms.
Lerain, O., May 24.—Business men and merchants here have promised to spend a week of their summer vacation helping farmers harvest their crops.

Deputies Soldiering.
Los Angeles, May 24.—Sheriff Cline has turned 125 picked deputies over to federal authorities for military training and will increase the number to 400. They will be returned to the sheriff a trained and armed home defense force.

Sell Old Papers.
Portland, Ore., May 24.—The Oregon Patriotic Service League today has collected and sold several tons of old papers and periodicals and will continue the campaign to raise a defense fund.

The Man Without A Country

BY EDWARD EVERETT HALE

By this time the men were all beside themselves, wishing there was any way to make him turn over two pages. But he had not quite presence of mind for that. He gagged a little, colored crimson and staggered on:

"For him no mind captures well. High though his titles, proud his name. Boundless his wealth as wish can claim. Despite these titles, power and pelf, The wretch, concentrated all in self"— And here the poor fellow choked, could not go on, but started up, swung the book into the sea, vanished into his stateroom, "and, by Jove," said Phillips, "we did not see him for two months again. And I had to make up some beggarly story to that English surgeon why I did not return his Waller Scott to him."

That story shows about the time when Nolan's braggadocio must have broken down. At first they said he took a very big tone, considered his imprisonment a mere farce, affected to enjoy the voyage, and all that; but Phillips said that after he came out of his stateroom he never was the same man again. He never read aloud again unless it was the Bible or Shakespeare or something else he was sure of. He was always shy afterward when I knew him—very seldom spoke unless he was spoken to, except to a very few friends. He lighted up occasionally, but generally he had the nervous, tired look of a heart wounded man.

Nolan's transfer at sea to the Warren was the first of some twenty such transfers, which brought him sooner or later into half our best vessels, but which kept him all his life at least some hundred miles from the country he had hoped he might never hear of again.

It may have been on that second cruise—it was once when he was up the Mediterranean—that Mrs. Graff, the celebrated southern beauty of those days, danced with him. They had been a long time in the bay of Naples, and the officers were very intimate in the English fleet, and there had been great festivities, and our men thought they must give a great ball on board the ship. They wanted to use Nolan's stateroom for something, and they had to do it without asking him to the ball, so the captain said they might ask him if they would be responsible that he did not talk with the wrong people, "who would give him intelligence." For ladies they had the family of the American consul, one or two travelers who had ventured so far and a nice party of English girls and matrons, perhaps Lady Hamilton herself.

As the dancing went on, Nolan and our fellows all got at ease, as I said—so much so that it seemed quite natural for him to bow to that splendid Mrs. Graff and say:

"I hope you have not forgotten me. Miss Rutledge. Shall I have the honor or dancing?"

He did it so quickly that Shubrick, who was by him, could not blinder him. She laughed and said:

"I am not Miss Rutledge any longer. Mr. Nolan, but I will dance all the same," just nodded to Shubrick as if to say he must leave Mr. Nolan to her and led him off to the place where the dance was forming.

Nolan thought he had got his chance. He had known her at Philadelphia, and at other places had met her and this was a godsend. He said boldly—a little pale, she said, as she told me the story years after:

"And what do you hear from home, Mrs. Graff?"

And that splendid creature looked through him. Jove! how she must have looked through him! "Home?" Mr. Nolan!!! I thought you were the man who never wanted to hear of home again!" And she walked directly up the deck to her husband and left poor Nolan alone, as he always was. He did not dance again.

A happier story than either of these I have told is of the war. In one of the great frigate duels with the English, in which the navy was really baptized, it happened that a round shot from the enemy entered one of our ports square and took right down the officer of the gun himself and almost every man of the gun's crew. As the surgeon's people were carrying off the bodies there appeared Nolan in his shirt sleeves, with the rammer in his hand, and, just as if he had been the officer, told them off with authority who should go to the cockpit with the wounded men, who should stay with him, perfectly cheery and with that way which makes men feel sure all is right and is going to be right. And he finished loading the gun with his own hands, aimed it and bade the men fire. And there he stayed, captain of that gun, keeping those fellows in spirits till the enemy struck. The captain walked forward by way of encouraging the men, and Nolan touched his hat and said:

"I am showing them how we do this in the artillery, sir."

And this is a part of the story where all the legends agree—that the commander said:

"I see you do, and I thank you, sir, and I shall never forget this day, sir, and you never shall, sir."

And after the whole thing was over and he had the Englishman's sword in the midst of the state and ceremony of the quarterdeck he said:

"Where is Mr. Nolan? Ask Mr. Nolan to come here."

And when Nolan came the captain said:
